Description

Detached two-storey house, c. 1835, with two-storey projecting bay extension to western end, built 1896. Hipped roof. Painted render to front elevation, plain render to side and rear elevations. Plain plaster surrounds to openings with scalloped detail at sills. Timber sash windows. Venetian window with coloured glass to half landing. Some original internal joinery visible from exterior. Landscaped gardens with private drive.

Appraisal

Particularly intact nineteenth century detached house retaining significant original fabric and in a well maintained condition. Modern modifications have not detracted from the scale and form of the house. Significant also for retaining an area of landscaped grounds.
